A

Mosaic of nations

Calendar 2004

That all may be one...

Today, we live in a world setting where we interact with people of multiple races, cultures and religions even within our own neighbourhood. They come from varied backgrounds, speak different languages and reflect a broad spectrum of life experiences and lifestyles.

A mosaic of nations indeed provides a variety of ideas, skills and interests that create a vibrant and dynamic society that enriches us. Accepting these realities makes us aware of the needs of others and evokes our sense of solidarity, our interconnectedness with one another. Truly, there is beauty and strength in diversity. But our differences can also give rise to mistrust, tension and conflicts. They can cause dissension and misunderstanding which might escalate to hatred, violence, religious hostilities and even wars.

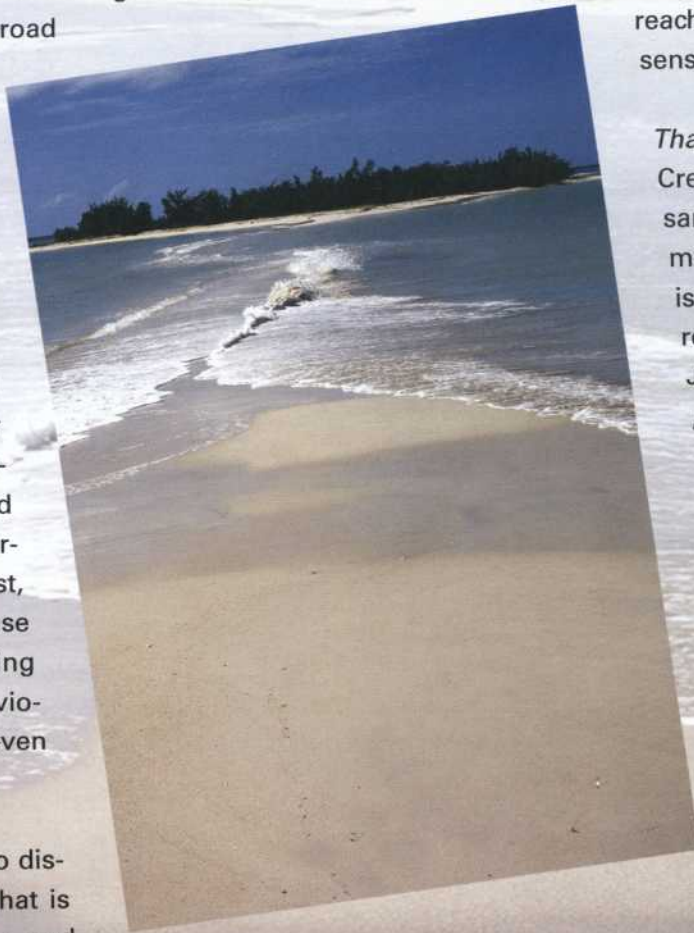

The challenge posed before us is to discover the art of living together. What is our response when our values and beliefs are contradicted? Can we recognize how precious others are even with their qualities totally unlike ours? Do we have the courage to enter into a dialogue and discover our commonalities? How willing are we to reach out to the other person and build up a true sense of oneness and harmony?

That all may be one – this is Christ's dream for all. Created in God's image, we are called to the same goal – God Himself. He has willed that all men should constitute one family in Christ who is beyond culture and in Him find the deepest reason for our unity and communion. Pope John Paul II exhorts us to be on a missionary path: to go to meet women and men of every race, tongue and nation with friendship and love....

May our daily encounters draw us closer to our Creator who beholds the beauty of each one and seeks to unite us in His Kingdom. With joy and gratitude, let us celebrate the richness of our diversity as we welcome the year 2004. A blessed and peace-filled New Year to everyone!

Philagora Gomez, M.I.C.

You are the God of Life

How can we express our wonderment, Lord!

You are the God of life!

*You elicit in us the joy to share,
to trust, to hope.*

You are with us to fight against those wanting to bind persons in their body, in their spirit, in their words and in their dignity.

*Allow us to thank you, Lord, for the powerful breath of life
that rises up on our earth,
for the superabundance of its wealth,
for the beauty and variety of people dwelling on it.*

*Thank you, Lord, to have created especially each human being,
in your image and likeness.*

Help us to live in harmony with one another.

Teach us to respect and protect the earth that you gave us.

Lord, make of us artisans of freedom among our brothers and sisters.

Our earth could then continue to give life to all your children who will sing your inexhaustible goodness.

Celebrate the gift of each new day.

The Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception

The Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception

Our Institute is present in 13 countries the world over. It counts about 700 women of 17 nationalities. Committed to the mission, we are called to be missionaries living a spirituality bequeathed by Délia Tétreault, our foundress: in union with Mary, we offer our life in perpetual thanksgiving to thank God for His countless blessings. The field of apostolate is rather wide: education, health care, pastoral work, parish work, missionary promotion, ministry among cultural minorities... In whatever form our presence may be, we want to witness to the infinite goodness of God for every human being and to spread the universal fraternity everywhere.

ASMIC

Canada. English speaking ASMICs with Claudette Bouchard, M.I.C. (seated, 1st l.) Pauline Desroches, M.I.C. (standing 4th r.).

Our missionary project and the spirit of thanksgiving animating it, offer the laity a chance to associate with our Institute in order to share its spirituality and mission. Today, the network of women and men associated with our religious family extends to different countries. With us, these Associates of the Missionary Sisters of the Immaculate Conception (ASMIC) participate in the service of society and in the universal mission of the Church. Periodic meetings gather them for formation, sharing and celebrations. Through their dynamic and generous involvement, the ASMICs make our spirituality of thanksgiving and missionary spirit burst forth in a novel way.

Projects for the Youth

Haiti. Venus Monestime, M.I.C. and the youth

Today as before, the youth are asking in what ways they can offer their life or in what projects they can engage themselves using their resources and talents. In order to respond to these youth and to accompany them in their spiritual journey and commitment, we propose some time and space to meet them. We also offer places of missionary insertion. Sessions, retreats, vocational camps, collaborative projects in the milieu, active participation in the World Youth Day (WYD) – these are some initiatives to help them develop a dynamic and borderless solidarity.

Missionary Exposure

Peru. Catherine Blais, a trainee at Ica

Lay Missionaries

Canada. Lay missionaries and team members of formation during one of the sessions
Sylvia Dupuis, M.I.C. (standing at center)

Each year some lay people of different ages write to us about their intention to serve in another country. Impelled by the spirit of solidarity, they want to get involved in projects geared to mutual aid and sharing. Our Institute founded especially for foreign missions, encourages lay participation in such undertakings. We propose to them different forms of collaboration. We offer them a formation programme animated by a team of missionaries composed of lay people, religious and priests from different Institutes. This program allows them to set up a project relevant to the felt needs of the receiving countries.

For further information, contact us. You will find our addresses on page 31.
Welcome to our website: www.soeurs.mic.qc.ca

Peru. Catherine Blais, a trainee at Ica

A good number of youth are interested in meeting other people or even to go abroad to be of service. Our community, since a few years now, has organized the project SOLIDARITY. It is to give these youth the chance to realize their dream and to live a missionary experience in a foreign country. Bolivia, Haiti, Taiwan, the Philippines, Peru and Chile have been host countries from time to time during a period of five weeks or two to three months. These youth can make use of their competence at the service of the people in the place, be it in dispensaries, schools or day-care centers... A program of formation helps them to deepen their humane, psychological and spiritual dimensions out of this missionary exposure.

Partners in Mission

Madagascar. Parents are involved in the efficient running of our school at Ambohibary. Pierrette Rasoamampianina, M.I.C. (standing 3rd r.).

We are privileged to work with the laity who cooperate with ardour in our different apostolates. They are involved in our schools, dispensaries, and centers for holistic formation of youth and women. With us they also do missionary promotion and pastoral ministry among immigrants. The collaboration of the laity, moreover, expresses itself in a remarkable way through diverse forms of volunteer work. Their generous contribution makes up an essential complement to our missionary service as well as energizes us in our commitment.

Be able to recognize the heroism of everyday life.

A large team of collaborators is engaged in the promotion of our magazines LE PRÉCURSEUR and the MIC MISSION NEWS. In all our missions, around 700 lay men and women are able to find creative ways of presenting our magazines, despite their daily tasks and challenges posed by the competition of print media. They are supported by bishops, parish priests and by welcoming and generous families. These collaborators facilitate the living in fraternity and in active solidarity with the missionaries and people in other countries.
